OLD AGE THE CAUSE OF PALMA'S DEMISE

Former President of Cuba Greatly Disappointed Over
Political Reverses—Accused Liberals of Starting
Most of His Troubles.

HAVANA, Nov. 5.—Thomas Estrada Palma, former President of Cuba, lies dead today at his farm home at Santiago de Cuba, a victim of old age and disappointment over political reverses.

He was seventy-three years old, and had been ill several months. A leading figure in Cuba's struggles for liberty, he was in the resurrection of 1902 and every uprising since that time. In the last Cuban revolution, Palma was delegate-at-large to Washington and minister plenipotentiary for the republic. After the Spanish-American war, he was President, assuming office in 1902, and subsequently re-elected to a second term. Political troubles arose and the second occupation of Cuba by American soldiers resulted. After appealing to President Roosevelt, Palma resigned.

He accused the liberals of starting most of his troubles. Recently when General Gomez, the liberal candidate for President, called upon him, Palma received him coldly and Gomez cut short his visit.

A wife and four children survive.

Liberals' Factional Fight Is Conservatives' Strength

HAVANA, Nov. 5.—The Gomez and Zayas factions of the liberal party, united with Gomez as the presidential candidate, claiming Zayas, his running mate, are keeping up the old fight. Their differences today constitute the chief element of strength of the conservatives.

Radical adherents of Zayas have sworn that their man shall be president. Should the liberals win the election of November 14, the threats against Gomez by the Zayas supporters will be carried out, it is feared.

When the two factions merged on the joint ticket, the Zayasists were promised the united support of the liberals in the next election. Santa Clara province is one of the strongholds of the Zayas faction, and the leaders there are dissatisfied, claiming that the coalition was forced upon them.

GEE! AIN'T IT COLD? A MORNING SALUTE

Old Boreas Comes Out of West and Moth Balls
Out of Closets.

Many a fellow sniffed at his right-hand neighbor on a downtown car this morning and then remembered that he had no right to sniff, for he wore a moth-ball hanger himself. Then each fellow shivered, and said, "Gee, didn't it turn cold quick, Bo?"

Yes, our old friend, the moth ball, was finally dismissed from his summer engagement just as soon as the folks got home last night. A lot of them had been caught downtown with nether garments more akin to cheese cloth than Mary's little lamb, but there was no help for it till bedtime, it all came so suddenly.

For the benefit of those who have been confined to our hospitals and places of reform, it is proper to say that immediately following the election of Mr. Taft, and while a great many Democrats and Republicans alike were celebrating in summer garments, a mighty wind descended upon this fair city about noon yesterday, and has continued to play pranks of more or less severity to the present moment.

Weak-Kneed Mercury.

This wind has been accompanied by a weak-kneed mercury that persisted in hunting the bottom of the thermometer. In this the mercury was successful, crowding itself down to 27 degrees above during the night.

Consequently there was much ice abounding along the thoroughfares this morning and those citizens whose feelings are pretty much controlled by imagination shivered in a manner pitiful to behold. It was the first real cold snap of the season and some of the most careful people were seen

Disregarding threats and warnings, King Manuel will leave for northern Portugal Sunday, to spend two weeks to make himself popular in a section of the country where republicanism is gaining ground dangerously.

Queen Amelie, on her knees, has begged the young ruler not to risk his life in such a venture. The newspapers urged a postponement.

But the King will not listen. The cabinet has told him that his appearance in northern Portugal is imperative as a possible check to the rising wave of radicalism.

Great preparations are being made to safeguard the King. Those opposed to the trip say these preparations will increase the discontent of the people.

CHINESE LITTLE FOLK CALL ON PRESIDENT

Celestial Youngsters Come From San Francisco to Pay
Their Respects to Mr. Roosevelt—Each Gets Autographed Postal Card.

President Roosevelt has received many and amusing President Roosevelt unique delegations during his tenure of office, but none created more interest about the Executive offices than a group of eight little Chinese children, from a rescue home in San Francisco, who received a Presidential handshake and sang two verses of "America" for the President this morning.

The bright little delegation, consisting of seven girls and one boy, the latter acting as "drum major" for the group, were in charge of Miss Carrie G. Davis, superintendent of the National Rescue Home of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in San Francisco, and Mrs. D. B. Street, of Washington, who arranged an audience with the President.

As soon as they reached the White House they were surrounded by a group of waiting Presidential callers and newspaper men, and apparently oblivious to the furor they were creating, scampered here and there among the Secret Service men and ushers.

When they were admitted to the President's office they immediately got on good terms with the leading citizen of the land.

For Taft Now.

"Mr. President," said Lum Wong, the only boy, aged nine years, "when I was in Lincoln not long ago, I was for Bryan. Now in Washington, I am for Taft."

The remark was entirely impromptu and amused President Roosevelt greatly.

Lum then took his place in front of the seven little girls, all attired in Oriental costume, gave the signal and "America" floated out. They sang in perfect time and their enunciation was perfect. After he had heard two verses the President told them they might break the rules and sing for the newspaper men when they came into the corridors again, which Lum seemed entirely willing to do. A moment later the waiting-room contingent was enjoying the most unique song festival in its history.

The Chinese children were brought East by Mrs. Davis as an example of what the home is doing in San Francisco, and are attending the Woman's Home Missionary Society convention at the Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church.

Leads Congregation.

Last night little Lum and his girl companions led the entire congregation in song.

After leaving the White House they returned immediately to the church for the afternoon service.

Baby Ida Alice Woo, the youngest of the eight, is only four years old, but speaks English well and is able to use an American word and then give the Chinese for it. Maud Lai is the eldest in the group, being thirteen. She plays the organ, if there is one handy, while Lum wields the baton.

President Roosevelt gave each of the little visitors an autographed postal card souvenir of the White House.

KILLS SELF AND BABY.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Harry W. Lynn, wife of a department manager of the Illinois Steel Company, killed her four-year-old daughter by cutting her throat with a razor and then committed suicide with the same weapon.

DEATH STOPS SUIT.
BOSTON, Nov. 5.—By falling from a housetop and dying a few hours later of his injuries, S. Peter Larsova, a Somerville contractor, escaped having to defend a $10,000 suit for the alienation of the affections of the wife of Charles H. Hall, a Boston and Maine fireman. Hall's lawyers filed the suit at almost the very hour when Larsova was injured. The court record of the case will be completed by the entry: "No further action on account of defendant's death."

Suffered for Two Years with Terrible in Fearful Condition—Unable to Sleep and Kept Scratching.

EIGHT SPEEDILY CURED BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"The Cuticura Remedies cured eight in our family (my husband, six children and myself) of a terrible eczema. We had so bad that the children couldn't sleep at night for scratching themselves. They were broken out thick and crusted all over. Then it would itch and burn and big sores came on their hips and legs. They would cry with the itching and burning. We were this way for two years. I used all the home remedies that I could hear of without any relief and then I went to a physician and got medicine three different times but it did not do us any good. I did not know what to do so I went to a friend and asked her what she was using for her children, and she told me it was the Cuticura Remedies. I sent at once for the Cuticura Remedies consisting of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent Pills. I also got one more box of Cuticura Ointment and two cakes of Cuticura Soap. They relieved us at once and in a short time we were cured. I am truly glad of finding a cure for eczema, and I shall recommend the Cuticura Remedies highly to every one so afflicted. Mrs. R. B. Boice, Rockcastle P. O., Jackson Co., W. Va., Mar. 3, 1908."

EVANS ON CRUTCHES BECOMES A RECRUIT

Rear Admiral Sworn Into
Army and Navy Union
With Simple Ceremony.

Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans is again a recruit.

He was mustered into the Army and Navy Union last night with simple ceremonies. He was greeted cordially by every member of that organization, designed to bring into closer companionship the men of the army and navy of the United States.

The rear admiral, who still uses crutches because of a recent operation on his foot, stood erect as the oath was administered to him by Commander J. Edwin Browne. He was plainly delighted with the simple ceremony of initiation and declared it gave him great satisfaction to become a member of the organization. He said he was glad to see so many officers enlisting in this cause and that if the men of the navy felt assured they had the support of officers, and the latter were working for their greater comfort and advancement it would create a finer spirit among the men of both branches of the service.

"The men are not so anxious for more pay," said Admiral Evans, "but for better shore accommodations. When a ship is dry-docked the men are compelled to remain about in uncomfortable quarters. Another drawback is that when they arrive in port with no definite place to go, the men wander about the streets and get into bad company. He expressed his intention of joining members of the Union in urging Congress to better the condition of the 'Jackie,' and do all in his power to help the cause of the enlisted men."
